

ABSTRACT

An instant message is generated in accordance with prescribed information displayed at a display unit. The instant message is transmitted to a prescribed client that can use the instant message. The transmitted instant message is displayed at a display unit of the client.